31 States Reform Criminal Justice Policies Through Justice Reinvestment

Overview

Since 2007, 31 states have reformed their sentencing and corrections policies through the Justice Reinvestment Initiative, a public-private partnership that includes the U.S. Justice Department's Bureau of Justice Assistance, The Pew Charitable Trusts, the Council of State Governments Justice Center, the Crime and Justice Institute, the Vera Institute of Justice, and other organizations. Although reforms vary from state to state, all aim to improve public safety and control taxpayer costs by prioritizing prison space for serious and repeat offenders and investing some of the savings in alternatives to incarceration for low-level offenders that are effective at reducing recidivism.

Justice reinvestment policies generally fall into four categories: sentencing laws that instruct courts about how to sanction convicted defendants; release laws that determine the conditions for offenders' departure from prison; supervision laws that guide how those on probation or parole are monitored; and oversight laws that track the progress of these changes.

In the years since the wave of reforms began, the total state imprisonment rate has ticked downward while crime rates have continued their long-term decline. At the same time, states that have enacted justice reinvestment laws expect to save billions of dollars as a result of their reforms.¹

Notes: The Justice Reinvestment Initiative is supported by The Pew Charitable Trusts and the U.S. Department of Justice's Bureau of Justice Assistance. Intensive technical assistance to the states is provided by Pew, the Council of State Governments Justice Center, the Crime and Justice Institute at Community Resources for Justice, the Vera Institute of Justice, and other partners.

A bipartisan, interbranch working group developed each state's policy reforms based on an analysis of the state's specific criminal justice challenges. The number of reforms in a state does not correspond with the impact on prison populations, costs, or recidivism.

Reforms reflected in the chart were enacted through legislation or executive or court order during each state's justice reinvestment process. Similar reforms that states may have adopted outside the justice reinvestment process are not included in this document.

Georgia reforms were enacted in 2012 and 2013; Louisiana reforms in 2011 and 2012; Connecticut reforms in 2004 and 2008; and Alabama reforms in 2011 and 2015.
