

33 Criminal Justice Professionals Endorse New Framework to Improve Probation and Parole

Diverse group of experts lends support to recommended policies and practices outlined in Pew report

Comprising more than 50 policy recommendations and best practices, a new report from The Pew Charitable Trusts presents a roadmap for state lawmakers and community supervision practitioners to decrease the size of the supervised population, reduce the use of incarceration as a sanction for rule violations, and increase successful outcomes for people on probation and parole.

- Linda Brady, past president, Probation Officers Professional Association of Indiana.
- Barbara Broderick, EXiT co-chair; former chief probation officer, Maricopa County, Arizona.
- William Burrell, corrections management consultant; former chief of adult probation services, New Jersey State Court System.
- William Carbone, senior lecturer and executive director, Criminal Justice Programs and the Tow Youth Justice Institute, University of New Haven; former executive director, State of Connecticut Judicial Branch, Court Support Services Division.
- Veronica Cunningham, executive director, American Probation and Parole Association; former parole director, Texas Department of Criminal Justice; former chief probation officer, Cook County (Illinois) Adult Probation Department.
- Edward J. Dolan, commissioner, Massachusetts Probation Service.
- Vincent Doto, director, Columbia County (New York) Probation Department.
- Adolfo Gonzales, chief probation officer, San Diego County, California.
- Kele Griffone, division director, Salt Lake County Criminal Justice Services.
- Billie Grobe, associate, Justice System Partners; former chief probation officer, Yavapai County, Arizona.
- Marcus Hodges, associate director, Washington, D.C., Court Services and Offender Supervision Agency; former president, National Association of Probation Executives.
- Michael Jacobson, executive director, City University of New York Institute for State and Local Governance; former commissioner, New York City Corrections and Department of Probation.
- Julie Kempker, director, Missouri Division of Probation and Parole.
- Sally Kreamer, deputy director, Iowa Department of Corrections.
- Steven Lessard, chief probation officer, Gila County, Arizona.
- Brian Lovins, president-elect, American Probation and Parole Association; principal, Justice System Partners; former assistant director, Harris County (Texas) Community Supervision and Corrections Department.

- Joseph Mancini, director of operations, SEAT Center; associate commissioner, Office of Community Partnerships, New York State Office of Children and Family Services; former director of probation, Schenectady County, New York.
- Terri McDonald, former chief probation officer, Los Angeles County, California.
- Rod McKone, chief adult probation officer, Pinal County, Arizona.
- Betty McNeely, director, Seattle Municipal Court Programs and Services Division.
- David Muhammad, executive director, National Institute for Criminal Justice Reform; former chief probation officer, Alameda County, California.
- Michael Wayne Nail, commissioner, Georgia Department of Community Supervision.
- Francine Perretta, executive director, Association of Women Executives in Correction; former deputy probation commissioner, Westchester County, New York; former director of probation, St. Lawrence County, New York.
- Veronica Perry, chief probation officer, Medina County, Ohio.
- Erika Preuit, director, Multnomah County (Oregon) Department of Community Justice.
- Susan Rice, chief probation officer, Miami County, Indiana.
- Gary Roberge, executive director, Connecticut Judicial Branch, Court Support Services Division.
- Vincent Schiraldi, EXiT co-chair; co-director, Columbia Justice Lab; senior research scientist, Columbia School of Social Work; former commissioner, New York City Department of Probation.
- Wendy Still, chief probation officer, Alameda County, California.
- Scott Taylor, founding partner, JustUs; former director, Multnomah County (Oregon) Department of Community Justice.
- Aswad Thomas, managing director, Crime Survivors for Safety and Justice, Alliance for Safety and Justice.
- Ray Wahl, founding partner, JustUs; former deputy state court administrator, Utah State Courts.
- Kathy Waters, director, Adult Probation Services, Arizona Supreme Court.