Indiana

Workers in the United States accumulate the vast majority of their retirement savings through employer-based plans, but large gaps in coverage exist. The data show significant differences in access and participation across the states. In Indiana, more than 500,000 full-time, full-year, private-sector wage and salary workers lack access to a retirement savings plan or a pension through their employer.

Note: Estimates are based on a pooled 2010-14 IPUMS-CPS file, with the exception of the "firm size" analysis, which includes only 2011-14 data because of changes in the categories over time. The estimated size of the population lacking access to a retirement plan is rounded down and refers only to full-time, full-year, private-sector wage and salary workers ages 18-64.
